2 structured data items are invalid About this issue: This issue is triggered if structured data items contain fields that do not meet Google's guidelines . Implementing and maintaining your structured data correctly is important if you want to get an edge over your competitors in search results. If your website markup has errors, crawlers will not be able to properly understand it, and you may run the risk of losing the chance of gaining rich snippets and getting more favorable rankings. For more information on the structured data requirements, see schema.org , Google documentation , or our article . How to fix: Check structured data on your webpages with a validation tool. Please note that different markup testing tools may show different results. We recommend that you use the Rich Results Test tool to review and validate your pages' structured data against their rich snippet requirements.	2 0
1 issue with incorrect certificate name About this issue: If the domain or subdomain name to which your SSL certificate is registered doesn't match the name displayed in the address bar, web browsers will block users from visiting your website by showing them a name mismatch error, and this will in turn negatively affect your organic search traffic. How to fix: Contact your website administrator and ask them to install the correct certificate. Since subdomains also require their own certificates, you can use a wildcard or multi-domain SSL certificate that allows you to secure multiple subdomains.	1 0

23 pages have low text-HTML ratio About this issue: Your text to HTML ratio indicates the amount of actual text you have on your webpage compared to the amount of code. This issue is triggered when your text to HTML is 10% or less. Search engines have begun focusing on pages that contain more content. That's why a higher text to HTML ratio means your page has a better chance of getting a good position in search results. Less code increases your page's load speed and also helps your rankings. It also helps search engine robots crawl your website faster. How to fix: Split your webpage's text content and code into separate files and compare their size. If the size of your code file exceeds the size of the text file, review your page's HTML code and consider optimizing its structure and removing embedded scripts and styles.	23 0
2 pages don't have an h1 heading About this issue: While less important than <title> tags, h1 headings still help define your page's topic for search engines and users. If an <h1> tag is empty or missing, search engines may place your page lower than they would otherwise. Besides, a lack of an <h1> tag breaks your page's heading hierarchy, which is not SEO friendly. How to fix: Provide a concise, relevant h1 heading for each of your page.	2 0
2 pages have a low word count About this issue: This issue is triggered if the number of words on your webpage is less than 200. The amount of text placed on your webpage is a quality signal to search engines. Search engines prefer to provide as much information to users as possible, so pages with longer content tend to be placed higher in search results, as opposed to those with lower word counts. For more information, please view this video How to fix: Improve your on-page content and be sure to include more than 200 meaningful words.	2 0

About this issue:	0
One of the common issues you may face when using HTTPS is when your web server doesn't support Server Name Indication (SNI). Using SNI allows you to support multiple servers and host multiple certificates at the same IP address, which may improve security and trust.
How to fix:
Make sure that you web server supports SNI. Keep in mind that SNI is not supported by some older browsers, which is why you need to ensure that your audience uses browsers supporting SNI.
